Incident Analysis-General Instructions

Purpose of the incident analysis form: To prompt the people doing the analysis to ask open-ended questions about the various components that may have contributed to the incident. The analysis explores the four organizational systems: Management, Employee, Equipment, and Environment (MEEE). The prompts alongside each box are designed to encourage open dialogue and communication about facts and details.

The incident analysis form should be completed by the immediate supervisor of those directly involved in the incident. At a minimum, the supervisor should review the analysis for more fact finding and corrections.

Analysis process

The people conducting the analysis need to look at the systems, procedures, and policies within the district that are not working and that may have contributed in some way to the incident. Even minor contributions should be listed. Only record those items found that are not working. The intent of the analysis is to discover system failures, so they can be corrected in order to prevent future incidents and accidents.

The Analysis

There are four steps to this analysis: fact gathering, system analysis, countermeasures, and monitoring. If more space is needed, attach an additional paper.

Step 1: Fact gathering

Move through each section and record facts that contributed to the incident. There is no specific order on the form. You may find yourself going back and forth between MEEE elements, and you may even have items that overlap more than one MEEE element because these systems work together. Ask open-ended questions such as: How did this happen? Describe what you and others were doing? What tools were you using? How were the conditions around you? Record findings in the boxes.

Step 2: System analysis

This is a series of “why” questions for each of the facts recorded during Step 1. The key to the system analysis is asking “why” questions. It will take you to core system and cultural issues within the organization. Keep asking “why” to determine what caused or allowed this condition or practice to occur until you get to the core of the problem. Record your findings in the boxes.

Step 3: Countermeasures

Once the system analysis is complete, it is time to develop solutions or countermeasures. Each item that has been identified in the spaces should have a corrective action that will be taken. You may find that some items in one or more of the MEEE boxes are similar or the same, so one solution could be possible for all of those. You should then identify who you think is responsible to fix this item or implement this solution. Also determine the time frame in which you think it should be done. Take your best effort at filling in the spaces, knowing that this information will be reviewed and can be updated or revised as needed.

Step 4: Monitoring

Many times great solutions are developed and implemented, only to have things revert back to former practices. This is because no one followed-up on these new processes to make sure they were used effectively. All employees are responsible to follow safe work practices, but it is essential for management and the Safety Committee to ensure that the countermeasures identified in this analysis are actually used.

This form is used to document the internal incident analysis and to enable both the school and district to learn about what contributed to the incident and discover potential system failures so they can be corrected.

An injured employee must complete the workers' compensation claim form (801) if the injury required medical treatment beyond first aid.

The information provided on this form will be used to record and report work-related fatalities, injuries and illnesses on an OSHA 300 log.
